POETRY

MOON WAS A FEATHER*Scott Nolan*

Evolving from a routine of long walks he began to help him quit smoking, Winnipeg singer, songwriter and musician Scott Nolan's debut poetry collection Moon Was a Feather reflects on a life well-considered. Poems that chronicle a difficult youth, experience with drugs, friendships, and music are interwoven with insights gleaned from the eclectic jumble of neighbourhoods and people he encounters on his long walks. Spare—eloquent with a healthy dose of grit—the poems of Moon Was a Feather are infused with the poet's deep appreciation for the eccentricities of fate that life throws at him, and the love for music that helps him make sense of them.

Scott Nolan is a songwriter, poet, multi-instrumentalist from Winnipeg, Manitoba Treaty One territory, with nine albums to his credit. His songs have been recorded by Hayes Carll, Mary Gauthier, Watermelon Slim, and Corin Raymond, among others. Long an avid reader of poetry, Nolan turned to writing it in 2015, when he started walking ten kilometres a day in his quest to quit smoking. Nolan discovered melodies and rhythms in the shuffling of his feet, and began writing short poems inspired by reflections on his own difficult past, as well as about people and places in his neighbourhood.

WITH GLOWING HEARTS*Jennifer Wynne Webber*

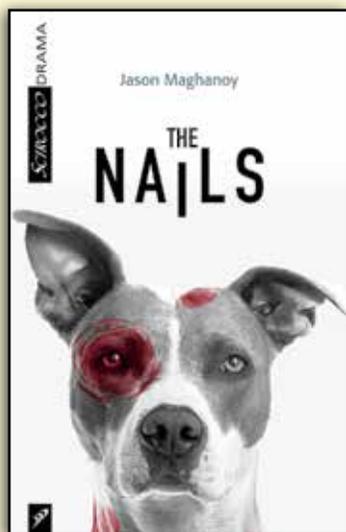

When the “Kirkland Lake gals of 1941” begin to share their story with a present-day audience, a siren sounds and they soon find themselves pulled right back into the fateful winter of 1941–42. There, they gather again at the mine-head, waiting for word on the men trapped underground, as their fear and rage builds. When the husband of one of the women is badly injured, their desire to help her quickly leads them into a much larger campaign to help all the families they can. Before long, they've become the heart and soul of a large-scale union-organizing drive that is fuelled by their sheer will—and sometimes giddy enthusiasm—but that is also put to the test by their own inexperience, a bitter strike, and the brutal force of the powers that be.

“Your heart will glow with pride in our history and fill with hope for our future... Go celebrate this true story and leave inspired and challenged.” —Barb Byers, Member of the Order of Canada, former Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Labour Congress

“A stirring underdog story.” —Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Born in Ottawa, Jennifer Wynne Webber spent most of her early years in Saskatoon. She has also lived and worked in Montreal, Calgary, Edmonton, and, most recently, on Vancouver Island. Jennifer is the author of numerous plays including Beside Myself, also published by Scirocco Drama, and White Lies, published in the online literary journal Ryga: A Journal of Provocations. Her novel, Defying Gravity, was published by Coteau Books and nominated for three Saskatchewan Book Awards including Book of the Year. Jennifer has taught writing, worked as a dramaturge and as a professional actor at theatres across Canada. She has also worked extensively in broadcast journalism and video production.

THE NAILS

Jason Maghanoy

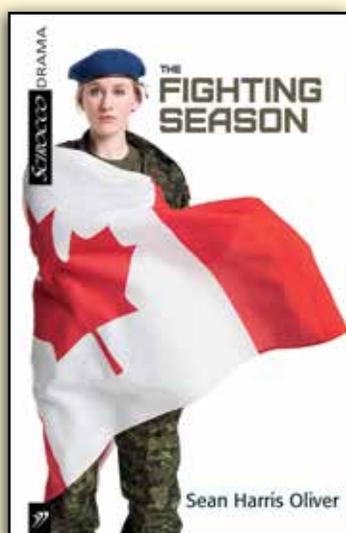

Ally and Josh spend every summer with their father as he goes from small town to small town, working for a construction company in America. But this summer is different. This is the summer they grow up.

The Nails is a play about family. It is a play about faith. And it captures a world of freedom and extremism in all directions; love and cruelty exist within the same space here. And sometimes they feel like the same thing.

“It’s the beauty of the unbreakable bond between a teenage brother and sister that makes this drama so remarkable.” —NOW Magazine

Jason Maghanoy is a graduate of the National Theatre School of Canada, has been a member of the Banff Playwrights Colony, and was a finalist for the Lila Acheson Wallace American Playwriting Fellowship at Juilliard. He has been a member of the Tarragon Playwrights Unit, Playwright-In-Residence at Theatre Passe Muraille, and Playwright-In-Residence at Young Peoples Theatre. His plays include Throat, Heart, The Corner, and Gas and Dust, which were published in a double volume by Scirocco Drama. Most recently, Jason was the playwright-in-residence at fu-GEN, and a member of the 2017 Stratford Playwrights Retreat.

THE FIGHTING SEASON

Sean Harris Oliver

Sean Harris Oliver’s The Fighting Season is a searing investigation into the Afghan War through the eyes of a Canadian field medic (Kristy), an OR surgeon (Terry), and a recovery room nurse (Karine). When all three medical professionals experience a life-changing event in the operating room of the NATO-controlled Role 3 Multinational Medical Unit at Kandahar Airfield, they are sent back to Canada for further evaluation. Through Kristy, Terry and Karine’s interwoven monologues we begin to understand the contribution that Canada’s medical teams made in Afghanistan, as well as the devastating impact that war has on the ones charged with saving lives.

The Fighting Season was nominated for the 2017 Jessie Richardson Theatre Award for Outstanding New Script.

“The Fighting Season is devastating...Oliver builds an empathy with realistic characters who are at times harrowing, horrific and heroic.” —Vancouver Presents

“Visceral and moving, The Fighting Season shines as a fascinating study of war medics.” —The Review Weekly

Sean Harris Oliver is a Canadian playwright, director, performer and filmmaker. His work has appeared throughout Canada and the US in a variety of arts festivals, public readings and theatre productions. Since 2010 Sean has written, performed and directed plays with Hardline Productions, a Vancouver-based theatre production company that he co-founded with Raes Calvert and Genevieve Fleming. Sean’s other theatre scripts include: Eight Seconds, Bright Blue Future, Redpatch, and The Soldier’s Wife. Sean is a graduate of Studio 58, and an avid beer-league softball player. The Fighting Season was inspired by his father’s deployment in Afghanistan.

HONOUR BEAT

Tara Beagan

Two grown sisters face off over their mother's death-bed. Together they confront one another, their own identities, and what will remain when their mom leaves this world. A contemporary look at the significance of faith and family, Honour Beat explores the stories this Indigenous family has told itself through the years, as their mother's youthful spirit leads them toward forgiveness.

"Honour Beat is an important work of art... It celebrates—honours—women as the givers and sustainers of life... The ending is extraordinary." —The Globe and Mail

"...a universal appeal despite its specific Indigenous roots... The final uplifting, spiritual moments of Honour Beat will linger with you long after you've left the theatre... the richness of story itself and the beautiful sentiments at the heart of the play." —Calgary Herald

Born in Niitsitapi country, Tara Beagan is a proud Ntlaka'pamux and Irish "Canadian" halfbreed. She has written more than twenty plays, and also directs and performs. BETTER ANGELS: A PARABLE AND EATING POMEGRANATES NAKED

Andrea Scott

In Better Angels: A Parable, Akosua Mansa leaves Ghana to work for Greg and Leila Tate in the tony suburbs of a metropolitan city. But she soon finds herself in an impossible situation: like more than forty million people, she's become trapped in modern-day slavery. Taking cues from the spider god, Anansi, Akosua will take her destiny into her own hands.

Eating Pomegranates Naked examines two couples and their single frenemy as they scratch the surface of their relationships over too much wine. What do infertility, religion, toxoplasmosis, and ice cream have to do with Tulipmania? Maybe more than you think.

Daniel, a washed-up Dollywood rhinestone cowboy, returns home to the farm near Wingham after many years, on the occasion of his mother's death. Despite his best intentions, Daniel gets drawn right back into scrapping with his old man, Walter, who used to play fiddle with the Ranch Boys on Circle 8.

"The drama captures two people, father and son, caught in the eternal predicament of living perplexing, imperfect lives. It is a condition we all share in common with Walter and Daniel."

THE SECRET ANNEX

Alix Sobler

Anne Frank has survived the war, and at age 25, she's ready to start a new chapter in New York City. Eager to publish a memoir of her time in hiding, Anne is sure it will launch her career as a writer. But when the only interested publisher suggests drastic rewrites, Anne is unsure of what to do. Why did she survive, if not to share stories?

"Sobler skillfully weds the power of historical fact with the allure of a what-if scenario."

HOME

Colleen Wagner

Home is the story of an aging man, Toomas, exiled from his homeland, who through repatriation efforts, can now return and reclaim his home and property. However, fifty-five years have passed and the home has been inhabited by three women who, caught in the shifting tides of a new world of globalization, find themselves threatened with expulsion when Toomas and his son, Wendall, return to reclaim the land and house. The women, who have lived in this adopted country and in this house for so long, feel suddenly rootless.

BITTER ROSE/ THREE STOREY, OCEAN VIEW

Catherine Banks

These two plays by renowned playwright Catherine Banks explore the stories of strong women as they work through their pasts. In Bitter Rose, after a morning of racing around the small town where she lives in her bloodied wedding dress, Rose barricades herself in the family room to examine her life.

In Three Storey, Ocean View, Peg has brought her ailing mother, Ruth, to Nova Scotia. Peg sees the old three-storey house by the sea as refuge, a place of safety for her mother and a place to begin again with her own angry daughter, 14-year-old Zoe.

THE ORPHAN MUSES

Michel Marc Bouchard
Translated by Linda Gaboriau
Finalist, Governor General's Award

The Orphan Muses is a devilishly funny play about four wacky siblings. Abandoned by their mother, who ran off with a Spanish fisherman, the Tanguay children were left to raise themselves. Now, on the eve of her return, this bizarre quartet must reconcile with each other and figure out why their mother left them. A truly unique comedy that is guaranteed to show you how normal your family really is.

GOD'S MIDDLE NAME

Jennifer Overton

Written with sensitivity and lightness of touch, God's Middle Name is the compelling tale of one mother's journey through the uncharted territory of raising an autistic child. The play, in a series of episodic scenes, follows Jennifer's family over the course of 10 years. Along the way are flights of fancy and a great deal of humour, found both in Jennifer's own approach to the challenge, and in Nic's perception of the world around him.

DRY STREAK

Leeann Minogue
Finalist for the Saskatchewan First Book Award

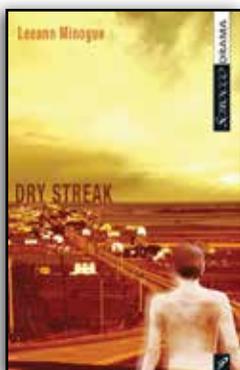

In the dry, hot summer of 1988, Kate, a young urban woman, moves with her boyfriend to his family's farm. She is not exactly the kind of girl John's parents had thought he would bring home. After months of unrelenting heat and the endless complaints of everyone around her, Kate makes a very public promise: If only the drought will break, she'll run naked through the streets of town.

Who's to blame for the decline of Canada's once-renowned social programs? This book argues that it's not the politicians, not big business (glorifying the free market), but Canadians in general. It provides compelling evidence of our loss of compassion during the last quarter of the twentieth century and our new demands for a harsher approach toward less fortunate Canadians, a harshness reminiscent of the century's early years.

Sexual encounters between Indian women and the fur traders of the North West and Hudson's Bay Companies are generally thought to have been casual and illicit in nature. This illuminating book reveals instead that Indian-white marriages, sanctioned "after the custom of the country," resulted in many warm and enduring family unions. These were profoundly altered by the coming of the white women in the 1820s and 1830s.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY CATALOGUE AUTUMN AND WINTER: 1910–1911

Few Canadians have seen a Hudson's Bay Company catalogue and understandably so. The Company's Department Store mail-order business was operated only from 1881–1913; today copies of the original catalogue are extremely rare. The Company opened Western Canada's first department store in Winnipeg in 1881, a stone's throw from walled Fort Garry. The treasures of the first store are all here in the Autumn and Winter 1910–1911 catalogue.

INUIT ART AN ANTHOLOGY

Edited by Alma Houston

From the first magical amulets and weapons to the world-famous Cape Dorset prints, Inuit art is discussed by authorities such as Sheila Butler ("Wall Hangings from Baker Lake," "First Printmaking Year at Baker Lake"), Charlotte and Edward Lindgren ("The Pangnirtung Tapestries"), and Jean Blodgett ("The Historic Period in Canadian Eskimo Art").

For the newcomer, Inuit Art is a solid introduction; for collectors and researchers, it is a gathering of expert knowledge in one beautifully illustrated volume.

ACTING ALONE

A DRAMA TEACHER'S MONOLOGUE SURVIVAL KIT

Demetra Hajidiacos

“This resource is packed full of useful tips for any classroom. English, History, and Drama teachers could use these ideas to create useful units to explore fictional characters or historical figures. As monologues are excellent for confidence building and oratorical skills, Acting Alone is a must in any drama classroom. I would give this a 4-star rating and a big ‘thank you’ to Hajidiacos for being inspired to create this much-needed resource.”—CM Magazine

THE END OF THE WORLD

THE APOCALYPTIC IMAGINATION IN FILM AND TELEVISION

John W. Martens

The End of the World examines the social, historical, and theological nature of ancient apocalypses and compares their vision of the apocalyptic end to that found in modern film and television. By examining films ranging from The Exorcist to Mad Max, from Bladerunner to End of Days, this book proposes that while apocalyptic films rely on these ancient apocalyptic texts, they alter them to give us a sense of our own fears and anxieties at the beginning of the twenty-first century.

HAPPINESS THREADS THE UNBORN POEMS

Melanie Dennis Unrau

Happiness Threads is an elegantly spare, thoughtful, and fiercely tenacious meditation on the trials and tribulations of modern motherhood. Written in response to the platitude “Your children are your poetry now,” Happiness Threads explores the struggle of a young mother to balance the demands of raising young children with her desire to make art. Unrau wastes neither words nor sentiment; often brief and wonderfully compact, these poems shy away from nothing—delving into every challenge, from the onslaught of dirty diapers and spit-up to the despair in the aftermath of a stillbirth.

97 POSITIONS OF THE HEART

Jaik Josephson
Illustrations by Erin
Josephson-Laidlaw

Elizabeth Smart, author of By Grand Central Station I Sat Down and Wept (1945), has been heralded as a complicated and passion-fuelled artist who dared to live in disregard of the burdensome expectations for women in the first half of the last century. 97 Positions of the Heart is a lyrical travelogue through the courageous life of this Canadian writer.

INTERMISSION

Heather Simeney MacLeod

Intermission is an uncommon and refreshing excavation of popular culture, memory, and relationship. It offers startling interpretations of the fashionable sitcoms and young-adult novels which were prevalent during the late 1970s while exploring the nuances of belonging, faith, and loss. With a tensile gesture we are moved from the icons of the 1960s—Janis Joplin, Jimi Hendrix, and the playful insertion of Jim Morrison’s documented acronym of his own name, Mr. Mojo Risin’—to the cityscapes inherited by Generation X.

NORTH END LOVE SONGS

Katherena Vermette
Winner of the Governor
General's Award

For Katherena Vermette, Winnipeg’s North End is a neighbourhood of colourful birds, stately elms, and always wily rivers. It is where a brother’s disappearance is trivialized by local media and police because he is young and aboriginal. It is also where young girls share secrets, movies, cigarettes, Big Gulps and stories of love—where a young mother full of both maternal trepidation and joy watches her small daughters as they play in the park.

TO SPEAK

Michelle Elrick

When the failure of a love affair renders everything irrevocably strange, unutterable, the poet begins a quest in search of the means to be able to “speak” again. The reader is invited on a journey with the speaker, traveling by poem on a road trip that will take them both through miles and miles of familiar and uncharted terrain.

Seduced by the quiet yet forceful voice of the speaker, readers will find themselves entranced by all the ways in which words, like wings, unfold into flight. The beauty and strength of Michelle Elrick’s poetry is that it resonates with simplicity and moth-like grace even when it is asking for the world.

THIS IS A SMALL NORTHERN TOWN

Rosanna Deerchild
Winner of the Aqua Books
Lansdowne Prize for Poetry

These are poems about what it means to be from the north, a town divided along colour lines, and a family dealing with its history of secrets. At its core, this collection is about the life of a Cree girl and the places she finds comfort and escape.

“What this northern girl pulls to the surface, kicking and screaming, is nothing less than magic. Like the mining town of her childhood, these poems blast away our innermost vulnerability, making way for love and light. But there is nothing shattered here—there is simply a dangerous girl the colour of gold. Stunning!”—Gregory Scofield

QUOTIDIAN FEVER:
NEW AND SELECTED
POEMS 1974–2007

Endre Farkas

The evolution of Farkas’s poetry since he began writing illuminates one of Montreal’s key literary figures, first, as one of the Vehicule poets of the 1970s, an experimental group of writers bent on celebrating life and pushing the boundaries of their craft and, later, as one profoundly aware of his role as a poet engaged with the world, one with a social conscience and a moral obligation to speak about it.

THE WAY BOYS
SOMETIMES ARE
AND OTHER POEMS

Clarise Foster

Many of these poems honour the poet’s brother, who died of AIDS; his spirit—in rhinestone tiara, crimson crêpe de Chine, and flamingo-pink pumps—is the muse of the book, watching over Foster’s shoulder as she explores and explodes the myths of our culture, the definitions in our dictionaries, and the categories of identity that define and confine us. Some of the poems revisit childhood, recalling a little boy who was “all toys and talk,” observing that “boys will be boys/until dying makes them men.”

A CURIOUS
BEATITUDE

Sarah Klassen

Sarah Klassen sings of paintings and symphonies, of gardens and mermaids, of miracles on mountaintops and the private language of birds, evoking landscapes that range from Gauguin’s Tahiti and Pizarro’s Cusco to the poet’s own childhood home in the Manitoba Interlake, weaving a colourful tapestry of poems that question, mourn, hope, and remember what it means to live on earth.

STEALING MERCURY

Lori Cayer

Lori Cayer's poems perform a kind of surgery, exposing the blind, interior terrain of the human body, navigating its hidden "forests and silt deposits," and peeling back the layers of family life until we can see the "glistening knot of bone" beneath. These poems are about risk-takers: a daring boy who climbs the high roof of a church, a young woman who discovers the strength of her desire in a drop of poison mercury, a lover who makes a difficult choice about her sexuality, a daughter who must learn to forgive.

ST. MARY AT MAIN

Patrick Friesen

Winner of the
Dorothy Livesay Poetry Award

In st. mary at main, Patrick Friesen's lyrical toughness works beautifully to evoke the city of "ghost and muscle" and "frost and fire" that is Winnipeg. Written with clarity, insight, and deep compassion, these new poems are acutely tuned to "how the streets are wired" in a city where the omnipresent wind haunts every corner, and the music of the people seems to spill from every doorway.

IN THE WORSHIPFUL COMPANY OF SKINNERS

Endre Farkas

Drawing on his research into the journals of early Canadian fur traders, poet Endre Farkas has crafted an imaginative account of one man's transformation in the strange land that becomes his home. This is a story of the unexpected change that comes over a man as he witnesses the beauty and hardship, compassion and cruelty, ambition and exploitation that forged a nation.

TASTING THE DARK: NEW AND SELECTED POEMS

George Amabile

Since the first collection of poems appeared in 1972, George Amabile has quietly become one of our country's most accomplished poets. Tasting the Dark presents a choice selection of his best work over the years and a substantial collection of his new poems. These are poems that open up and reach out, hungry to taste their fill of light as well as darkness, to taste grief and joy and rage and beauty—and to speak of it all with eloquent and sensuous precision.

HOLDING THE DARK

Melanie Cameron

In Cameron's evocative opening poem, a young woman, temporarily deprived of her eyesight, pushes herself deep into inner space, letting the darkness unfold around her until the "boundaries of skin" dissolve and personal identity is fractured "like a galaxy into constellations." The poems that follow explore what can happen when you dare to "keep your eyes open in the dark."
